

Tackling Tough Conversations

How to Live Justly and Soulfully in a Deeply Divided World

Saturday, February 8, 2014

2:00 - 4:00 p.m.

Main Branch of the Klamath County Library

Led by Author Nancy M. Thurston

In a diverse world where fear threatens to divide us, our hearts long for connection, healing and justice.

Nancy Thurston knows something about honoring inner wisdom and tackling tough conversations. For over three decades, Nancy has worked to address and understand injustice through listening to diverse voices, diving into challenging conversations and engaging in transformative action.

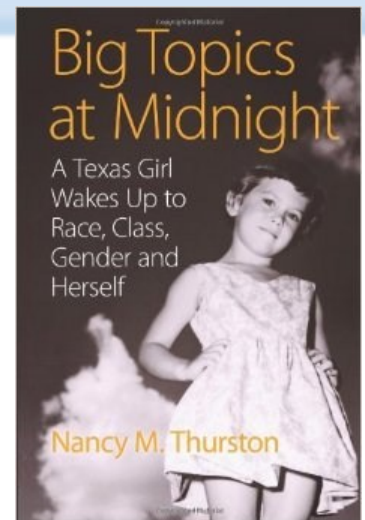

Along the way, Nancy discovered that the way to change the system was to change her own life.

Join Nancy as she shares excerpts from her memoir, Big Topics at Midnight: A Texas Girl Wakes Up to Race, Class, Gender and Herself, and facilitates a lively and creative inquiry into finding the solid ground so needed for juggling justice, soul and the world around us.

Drawing by Book Illustrator
Khara Scott-Bey

Sponsored by Klamath County Library.
For more information on the event call 541-882-8894, ext.18. For more information about Nancy Thurston or Big Topics at Midnight see www.nancymthurston.com.

“The divisions we most fear can become doorways to transformation.”

Klamath County Library
126 South Third Street, Klamath Falls
www.klamathlibrary.plinkit.org